Longest Day of Play is Monday

The Community Health Partnership's Longest Day of Play for Cynthiana and Harrison County is Monday, June 22.

Activities are planned for children ages 2 to 12. They will play in the park and learn about physical fitness. There will also be free give-aways including gifts to the first 200 children.

All activities are free and open to the public. To register in advance, see the form on page 3.

Battle of Cynthiana is this weekend

The Battle of Cynthiana re-enactment will lay siege to Elks Farm this weekend. Numerous activities are scheduled, beginning Friday evening at 8 p.m. with a period dance demonstration during the Chamber of Commerce concert held downtown in the courthouse square.

On Saturday, a ladies tea will be held under the picnic shelter at Elks Farm at 1 p.m. If there are extra spots, the public can attend. The first battle re-enactment will take place at Elks Farm at 2:30 p.m. On Saturday evening at 9 p.m., a period ball will be held under the picnic shelter. The public is welcome to attend.

The Sunday battle re-enactment will be conducted at 2 p.m. at Elks Farm. A period church service officiated by Baptist minister Chadwick Noel will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday at the farm. A singing of the national anthem will not be held; a story in last week's paper incorrectly stated it would be held on Saturday.

The story also said a dinner would be served Friday evening. The dinner is for re-enactors only.

Additional shifts called to help track runners

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Two simultaneous events last Thursday evening left the Cynthiana Police Department temporarily shorthanded.

Cynthiana Ptl. Nathan Linville and Assistant Chief William Denton were attempting to locate a man who had apparently ran from an argument that occurred on Delta Court shortly before 10 p.m.

According to Ptl. Michael Kiskaden, he was called in early for his evening shift to assist with the foot pursuit of the man who fled after an argument with Delta Court residents.

A second man was arrested at Delta Court by Linville. However, the other subject ran toward Riggs Avenue, where he allegedly crouched in the bushes.

Denton flushed the suspect out of the bushes and he ran toward Cherokee Drive.

Dispatch received calls that the man was running toward Stokely Lane.

Kiskaden said he parked on Stokely and caught up with Steven Johnson in less than half a block.

Johnson was arrested and charged with second-degree fleeing or evading police and alcohol intoxication.

While the officers on duty were busy with the Delta Court situation, an accident occurred at the corner of Main and Pleasant streets, where passengers climbed out of the truck involved and fled the scene.

The call was made to dispatch at 10:16 p.m.

One of the subjects, originally suspected to be the driver, was followed on foot by Cynthiana Mayor James Smith.

Smith was working in front of new Main Street business Abstract Designs when he witnessed the crash. He said he saw the young man climb from the drivers' side of the truck and walk away.

The young man was at Ken's NewMarket squatting behind a car when off-duty Sgt./Det. Alan Judy arrived followed by Ptl. John Bright, who was also called in early for third shift.

Bright arrested Aaron Adams, 22, charging him with alcohol intoxication.

Sgt. Eric Kendall was also called in early to investigate the accident.

Dalton Hill, 19, was driving a 2001 Dodge Ram pickup truck on Main Street approaching Pleasant. He said the light changed to red and his brakes failed, which caused him to enter the intersection where Robin Glascock was passing through driving a 2002 Lexus SUV.

Hill struck the driver's side of Glascock's SUV.

According to Kendall's report, there were three passengers in Hill's truck who ran from the scene due to the presence of alcohol.

Kendall noted that Hill had not been drinking and there were no injuries reported.

Frazier Dailey, 73, organizes the Hometown Tractor Show in Cynthiana each year. His tractor, pictured with him above, is a 1938 Case, and is very well-known. Dailey said people around the world have visited him to see the tractor.

Making a CASE

By KELLY MCKINNEY, News Writer

To say that Frazier Dailey is proud of his tractor is probably a vast understatement.

The 73-year-old nearly came to tears Friday talking about the 1938 RC Case tractor that he's owned since 1966.

"My son told me he'll take care of it when I'm gone," Dailey said.

Dailey said his heart is working at just 10 percent, and he has survived three or four major operations.

Dailey also was diagnosed with throat cancer in 2005, and forced to undergo chemotherapy.

"The chemotherapy nearly killed me," he said.

The chemo caused Dailey to lose nearly a third of his body weight, which plunged from 205 pounds to 130 pounds.

But the chemo didn't kill him. Far from it. The illness prompted Dailey, now cancer-free, to use his love of tractors to help others with cancer.

Dailey runs the Hometown Tractor Show held in Cynthiana each year, and donates all the proceeds to Relay for Life.

"Every penny of it goes to them," he said.

Last year, the event raised almost $1,000, he said.

The show features tractors from around the area. This year's show was held last Thursday through Saturday at Flat Run Veterans' Park.

Usually about 100 tractors are on display during the three-day event, Dailey said.

Dailey's 1938 Case, which he named Samson, was one of those parked proudly at the park for

Committee on Ag meeting held in Cynthiana

By KELLY MCKINNEY, News Writer

It's no secret that tobacco has become less in demand in recent years. And its demand continues to fall. This year's tobacco crop in Harrison County is the smallest crop in terms of acreage in modern times, according to State Rep. Tom McKee.

The subject of tobacco was talked about at a meeting of the Interim Joint Committee on Agriculture held June 10 at the Harrison County Extension Office.

The meeting was for various extension agents and representatives to discuss how successful agricultural diversification efforts across the state have been, McKee said.

Kentucky receives funds each year from the Master Settlement Agreement (MSA) entered into with major cigarette manufacturers in 1998.

Half of the funds are spent toward helping farmers diversify into crops and agriculture other than tobacco, McKee said.

"Kentucky's fortunate to be able to spend 50 percent of its (MSA) funds on agricultural diversification," McKee said. "The biggest emphasis was put on agricultural diversification."

Extension agents from Harrison, Bourbon, Scott and Nicholas counties attended the meeting, and talked about their progress.

Harrison County has received just over $1.9 million in the agricultural diversification funds since 2010, McKee said.

the most as a result of the diversification initiative, McKee said. Harrison County farmers have also turned to soy beans and corn, McKee said. "Grains have been very successful," he said. Hay production also has increased, McKee said. Production of both quality hay (horse-quality hay) and alfalfa hay has grown. McKee said he is thankful to both the Beef Cattle Association and the local Agricultural Development Board for their efforts in the diversification initiative. McKee, who chaired the meeting, said he was happy to be able to have a meeting in Cynthiana, rather than Frankfort. "I was able and very proud to showcase my hometown," McKee said. "I'm just really proud to be in a position to be able to bring the meeting here." McKee said there was very good attendance at the meeting. "We were very, very pleased," he said.

Cynthiana couples to open athletics complex

By KELLY MCKINNEY, NEWS WRITER
When they decided to go for it, they went big. What started as an idea to find a place for All-Star Cheerleading quickly expanded into plans to offer not only cheerleading, but also baseball, basketball, soccer, golf and myriad other activities. "We knew that if we were going to do it, we were going to do it," DeDe Shirley, one of the four Cynthiana residents looking to open the facility, said. Shirley, her husband Greg Shirley, and another couple, Fran and Chad Davis, are planning to open HarriCyn

Athletics in the business park off U.S. 62 in Cynthiana. The facility will consist of two buildings totalling just under 10,000 square feet, and will include a full-size cheerleading competition floor and tumble track, facilities for soccer training and baseball training, and golf nets, batting cages and basketball goals, as well as other activities. For the families, building the athletics facility is a real leap of faith, Shirley said. "We've been really looking into this the past six to seven months," she said. "Asking 'Is this possible? Can we really do this?'" The Shirleys have never run a business, other than having rental property. And, though Chad Davis owns a construction company, opening an athletics facility is an entirely different endeavor, Shirley said. "It's very much a learning experience," she said. "Making sure you have all the drawings and plans. It's a lot. There are so many hoops you have to get through." Shirley said the hardest part was finding the land. Every place they looked was too expensive, until they found the spot in the business park. "Once we found that, we knew we could do it," she said. Still, the families are not sure when, or if, they'll get the money they've put into the facility back, much less see a profit. The prospect is scary, but making money isn't the families' goal, Shirley said. "It's not about making a profit," Shirley said. "We'd love to get our money back, but we just wanted to have something here (for kids)." Both couples have everyone to see this past weekend. The 1938 model RC Case was shown in Cynthiana when it came off the production lines in '38, Dailey said. Dailey said his Case is famous in the antique tractor circle, and people have come from as far away as England to see it. "It's known the world over," he said. And Dailey is known for being the tractor's owner; he's called the Case Man. He has had several offers on the Case, but was never even tempted to sell it. Dailey loves tractors in general as well. He chuckled as he said another tractor of his, a green one, is named Homer. And Dailey has put the power of today's technology to work in sharing his love of antique tractors. He founded the website antiquetractorsforum.com, where tractor lovers can discuss tractors, tractor shows, and anything else of interest. And Dailey has videos posted on YouTube. One shows Dailey maneuvering the Case tractor into a Kroger store, where it sat on display in the produce section for two weeks. Getting the tractor through the door was a real challenge, Dailey said. "I had about a half inch on each side," he said. But that, like the much more difficult obstacles life has put in Dailey's path, didn't stop him. When Dailey first began his chemotherapy treatments, he was one of four people diagnosed around the same time who began treatment together, he said. He was the only one of the four to survive a year. "So, I'm fortunate to be alive," he said. Despite his health concerns, Dailey plans to continue to put on the tractor show as long as he's able. His health doesn't seem to slow him down much. "I do all right," he said. More information about the Hometown Tractor Show can be found on antiquetractorsforum.com.

No primaries would be better for Cynthiana

Becky Barnes
Editor

The city of Owensboro is on to something.

For years I have pondered the need for primary elections in non-partisan races. Particularly those for Cynthiana and Berry commission races.

As it stands now, the mayor and commissioners are in a constant state of campaigning if there are enough candidates who have filed.

If more than eight people file for the city commission seats, they have to run in a May primary to narrow the field to eight. Then in November, they run again in the general election to get the four officials.

Why not strike the primary and just put everyone on the November ballot?

From an advertising standpoint, I would love to see the primary continue. However, from the practical side, I say do away with the primary.

As it stands, candidates are knocking on doors, shaking hands and kissing babies every 12 months.

They never get to hit a stride because they are nearly always campaigning or making plans to campaign.

The constant campaigning has, in the past, made for some long commission meetings with incumbent candidates jockeying for a look-at-me headline or Cable 6 airtime.

A new Kentucky law that became effective January 2015 allows cities to plot their own election course.

Mind you this is only for city races, not county, state or federal elections. It could, however, include mayoral races.

Candidates for mayor run for office every four years. However, the same could apply by doing away with their primary races.

Owensboro is doing just that. The Owensboro commission is set to hear the first reading of an ordinance doing away with primaries for its city offices.

According to a story in the Owensboro Messenger Inquirer, if the city drops its primary starting next year, candidates could begin filing on Nov. 4, 2015. Rather than close filing in January 2016, candidates would be allowed to file up to August 2016 for the November 2016 general election.

Cynthiana's next general election to determine a new commission will also be November 2016. However, there will be a special election in November 2015 to fill the unexpired term vacated by Walter Tapp.

Jada Walker Griggs was appointed to fill that seat until the special election.

It appears Cynthiana is staging a comeback.

The downtown beautification project is an asset to the community. Some might even say there is a new attitude and it has been sparked by the new commission.

I would like to see some continuity with these projects.

Wouldn't we all rather see our officials working for our city instead of working to get themselves re-elected?

Cynthiana High School Class of 1950

CHS Reunion to offer a walk down Memory Lane

By JOYCE STANLEY FEIX, GUEST COLUMNIST

Cynthiana High School reunion activities planned for the weekend of June 26-27 promise a walk down Memory Lane; both figuratively and literally.

Maximize each reunion's offering with the following itinerary:

Friday night dinner at Biancke's kicks off the reuniting of anyone who wishes to join.

Saturday morning, take a stroll up Main Street. The first store front decorated in Uniques where three commemorative boards are on display. The exhibit depicts life during the 1950s as experienced by the honored 60-year class.

The posters represent the music, movies, cars, even the popular beauty products, homemade dress patterns (Remember Patton's?), as well as food being sold at the local A&P grocery. It's all part of the fun growing up in Cynthiana throughout the 50s decade.

One display is reminiscent of school days on the Hilltop, which are etched into the mind of each alumni as strongly as the massive ivy ensconced in the school's brick.

Continue your Memory Lane walk up Pike Street on the left to view the remaining store windows, includin the always-over-the-top Judy T's shop, followed by the 55's class extensive two-window display of the Class of 1960, not to be missed.

At the corner of Pike and Walnut, turn left and proceed to the Old Show building, which is the jewel of Cynthiana -- the museum, a treat for all residents, both past and present. The museum receives a yearly donation for the CHS Alumni Association.

Before leaving town, enjoy a Peggy Benton at Biancke's; then cross the street to City Hall, once the center of activities.

Remember the square dances with caller Bob Wigginton? Who can forget the dances, junior and senior prom, CHS basketball games, district tournaments with county schools? City Hall was also an early venue for the CHS alumni reunion. It has been renovated but it remains small and cozy and a great memory.

At 5 p.m., the annual reunion at the Extension building will begin with a social hour, followed by a buffet at 6 p.m.

Tradition continues with the singing of "Hustle Up," led by the cheerleaders, which begins the program, the recognition of honored classes, followed by a brief business meeting, culminating with a listing of lost alumni from June 2014 to June 2015. The program will end with singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Don't miss the weekend, which will be packed full of stories, many exaggerated by now, memories and a promise of returning the same time next year.

Community Water Day will make 2015 return at FRVP

By KELLY MCKINNEY, NEWS WRITER

Kids in Cynthiana will soon have the chance to slip, slide, splash and just get really wet. And they might even get to dunk a local celebrity.

The second annual Community Water Day will be held Saturday, July 18, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Flat Run Veterans' Park.

Kids can slide down an inflatable water slide, zip down a Slip'N'Slide and even get sprayed by the Cynthiana Fire Department, Tomi Jean Clifford, one of the organizers of the event, said. Refreshments including snow cones and cotton candy also will be available.

Local celebrities, including Cynthiana Mayor James Smith, have volunteered to be doused in a dunk tank at the event, Clifford said.

This is the second year a Community Water Day will be held in Cynthiana. Clifford said the event, organized by the Community Event Committee, was started to give kids something to do in the summer.

"It's a fun day of playing in the water, stuff they otherwise wouldn't get to do," Clifford said.

Last year's Water Day drew a crowd of almost 400, Clifford said.

"It was a really good turnout," Clifford said.

She said she hopes for an even better turnout this year.

The event is completely free, and is sponsored by local businesses and funded through fundraisers, Clifford said.

The Maiden City Pursuit, held in May, was one of the fundraisers for the event. The committee also is selling raffle tickets for a free photography session to raise funds. To buy a raffle ticket, contact Clifford at 588-2612 or on the event's Facebook page, which is called Cynthiana Community Water Day.

Athletics

children; the Shirleys have four and the Davises have two.

They felt that there just weren't any athletic facilities for kids in Cynthiana, Shirley said.

"(It'll be) just fun things for them to do here," Shirley said. "There isn't a whole lot open for them."

Shirley said another reason behind opening the facility is to try to keep money families spend on athletic activities in Harrison County.

"We have so many people in our community who travel to Paris for soccer," Shirley said.

Shirley said they plan to hold lots of special events as well, such as open gyms, Parent-Child Soccer and shut-in nights where kids can play in the facility while their parents enjoy time alone.

One shut-in is planned for Black Friday, so that parents can get out and shop the deals going on, Shirley said.

During the open gyms, college gymnastic coaches will provide instruction. Shirley said she hopes to have at least one open gym a month.

The buildings also will be available to rent for birthday parties and other events.

Adults can take advantage of HarriCyn Athletics as well, Shirley said.

"That's something we really want to emphasize, that it's for adults too," she said.

The plans for the facility can be changed or added to. Shirley said they are wanting to hear from the community on what people most want.

"This is being built for (the community)," Shirley said.

They hadn't even thought about having golf nets, for example, until someone suggested it.

The families have set up a Facebook page where people can comment on what they would like to have.

Shirley said she hopes the community will embrace the facility, as it's being built and tailored for them.

The name of the business, a combination of Harrison and Cynthiana, sums up what it's all about, Shirley said.

"We wanted to be sure it really showed it was for our community," she said.

While they were trying to come up with a name, her son-in-law mentioned HarriCyn, which is used by HarriCyn Community Theater.

"As soon as he said it, it was done," Shirley said.

The families hope to have one of the buildings up and running by September. That building will be for cheerleading. They plan to have the second building done by October, Shirley said.

For Shirley, the groundbreaking can't come fast enough.

She said the most challenging part of the experience so far has been the waiting.

"It's trying to get started," she said. "People can't wait to use it."

Two new Cynthiana police officers were sworn in at the Tuesday, June 9, meeting of the Cynthiana City Commission. Above, Michael Coppage, a certified police officer from Cynthiana, who is coming back home, repeated the oath of office with City Attorney John Lair. Below, Vance Meighan of Bath County, will be going through extensive training at the police academy at Eastern Kentucky University.

Woman’s Club meets for June luncheon

The Woman’s Club of Harrison County met Friday, June 12, at Hospice of the Bluegrass for its monthly luncheon. Anna Ruth McLoney welcomed members and led everyone in the Pledge of Allegiance. Peggy Whitson offered the blessing of the meal. Layne Tussey catered the luncheon. She served quiche with asparagus, chicken salad, frozen fruit salad, croissants and lemon pound cake with berries. For spiritual values, Whitson read a poem by Jill Briscoe called Morning by Morning which highlights the importance of beginning each day with prayer. McLoney introduced guest speaker Karen Adams. She spoke to the group about changing times and the challenges our community faces due to the escalating drug problem. The use of illegal drugs impacts all our lives. Some of the issues we face are: no longer feeling safe in our homes, property values decrease and health care costs increases. Adams encouraged each of us to remain vigilant and to know there is beauty all around us and never give up and lose hope. At the conclusion of her presentation she opened the floor for questions and discussions. Adams is a native of Harrison County. She graduated from Eastern Kentucky University and received her Master’s Degree in Community Counseling from Murray State. She has a private practice in Cynthiana, Adams and Associates

Counseling. She is a member of the Cynthiana Christian Church where she serves as elder, moderator of the church board and sings in the church choir. She is a member of The Licking Valley Singers and is active in many civic and community organizations including Champions for a Drug Free Harrison County. Following the program, a brief business meeting took place. Kaye McCauley read the minutes from the May meeting and Virgie Wells gave the treasurer’s report. The Woman’s club adjourned for the summer and will meet again on Friday, Sept. 11. Submitted by: Marsha Kaye McCauley, secretary

This Cynthiana train schedule is your clue for the third week of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Museum’s Great Treasure Hunt. Thirty-eight students took the time to visit the museum during the second week and are now eligible for prizes. Last week, Breyanna Maresco, a sixth grader at Harrison County Middle School, won the Rohs Opera House movie pass. Students are encouraged to visit the museum each of the eight weeks of the Hunt. During this time, a museum artifact will be pictured somewhere on the pages of The Cynthiana Democrat. Students K-12 are tasked with finding that article inside the museum. Each participant will receive a Leono’s coupon. Those students who locate the item will be in the drawing to win a free movie pass to the Rohs Opera House. Weekly winners will be eligible for the Aug. 1 grand prize drawing. Photographs of the items will also be available at the museum, which is open only on Fridays and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sponsors for the event are Leono’s, Rohs Opera House and The Cynthiana Democrat.

Bold blooming tropicals

There is nothing like a tropical plant for bold, bright blooms in your summer outdoor living space. It is the perfect environment because most tropicals like the bright light and heat and humidity that summer brings.

Jeneen Wiche Columnist www.SwallowRailFarm.com

We baby them through the winter months, waiting for the threat of frost to past so we can bring them outdoors for a breath of fresh, warm air. Tropical hibiscus are probably the most popular, as they should be, because they reward us with continual bloom as long as they receive six hours of full-sun each day and some fertilizer. But, there are some other reliable bloomers to consider if you have a penchant for drama. This year I have a frangipani. A what? Frangipani, or plumeria acutifolia, is native to the West Indies where it is considered a small deciduous tree, reaching about 15 feet in height. As a tropical that must be brought indoors for the winter, they usually only reach about five feet for us. Usually, they appear as single-stemmed plants with two or three branches. It has somewhat of a whimsical look to it because the leaves of a frangipani emerge only on the tips of the rounded, fleshy branches. Later in the summer, the blooms emerge from the terminal ends and the five petals that make up the bloom are arranged like a spiraling pin-wheel. The frangipani has all the telltale qualities of a tropical flowering plant: large shiny, thick leaves and fragrant fleshy blooms ... like what you would imagine being given to wear around your neck if you went to a tropical paradise. The fragrant flowers appear in mid- to late-summer and continue into fall. There are various shades of bloom and usually the botanical name suggests the color like pulmeria alba (white) and p. rubra (red-pink, sometimes bronzy or yellow). The frangipani is only hardy to about 55 degrees so treat it as you would any other tropical houseplant and bring it indoors in the fall before the threat of frost. Once it is indoors you can just let it rest in the basement, watering it sparingly until the following spring. It is easy to propagate, too, simply take a cutting of new tip growth in late spring and stick it in soil, keeping it moist until it has rooted. Beyond that these tropical plants can be kept on the dry side. The brugmansia is a tropical that

27. Fellowship begins at 5 p.m. A potluck meal (bring a covered dish) will be served at 5:30 p.m. Come fellowship, remember and reminisce. No reservation is necessary, just be there with a happy heart and an appetite. has angelic appeal. Commonly called angels’ trumpet, brugmansia has numerous large, trumpet-shaped blooms that nod beneath large green foliage. The blooms are often white, but yellow and pink variations are available too. The stems are robust but foliage is very thin (although remarkably tough in full-sun situations as long as adequate water is provided). Like most flowering plants, brugmansia needs a good six hours of full-sun in order to bloom well. Brugmansia aurea is a vigorous grower and bloomer if given the right environment. A healthy plant with some age on it will produce dozens of blooms from mid-summer to fall. A new start (best propagated from cuttings) will reach three feet in one season and one that has been wintered-over in a greenhouse or basement (like mine) will be three feet in a matter of a month. It is a good idea to sink this one in its container, into the ground during the growing season to moderate the soil moisture more effectively. Once the threat of frost approaches you can pop it out of the ground, cut it back to about 12 inches and place it in the basement to rest with the frangipani, watering it sparingly.

A's remain undefeated with 8-3 win over Cardinals

Game of the Week

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The A's took their season record to 11-0 Friday night as they eased past the error-prone Cardinals, 8-3, in Cal Ripken action.

The A's scored two unearned runs in the bottom of the first on a Jacob Craycraft single, a walk to Logan Cummins and an error by the Cardinal third baseman to take a lead they would never surrender.

Cummins pitched the complete game for the A's allowing only one hit while walking eight Cardinals.

The A's loaded the bases in the second on a hit, an error and a walk before Cardinal hurler Brody Hockensmith struck out the next two batters and got a ground out to end the threat.

The first three innings featured seven strike outs for Cummins as the Cardinals could not catch up to his fastball.

Two errors by the pitcher allowed three more unearned runs for the A's in the bottom of the third to make the score 5-0.

The Cardinals got on the board in the fourth when Hockensmith struck out but alertly ran to first when the catcher misplayed the third strike.

Hockensmith advanced to second on a passed ball and stole third. He then scored on Chandler Power's ground out to second. The A's answered with a run of their own in the bottom of the fourth but it could have been worse.

Craycraft again led off with a single and advanced to second with a stolen base.

He then advanced to third on a ground out and scored on a fielder's choice by Cummins. Cummins was on first with one out when catcher Will Banks lifted a fly ball to shallow right center.

Cardinal center fielder Ian Boland made a sliding catch on Banks' hit and doubled Cummins off first for the third out.

The Cardinals scored twice in the fifth when Boland scored on Tanner Eckler's double and Eckler scored on a passed ball.

The A's scored two more unearned runs in the fifth for the final 8-3 score.

Brent White had a big opposite field double for the A's in the fifth.

The A's had two players with two hits as Riley Warmouth joined Craycraft in a two-hit night.

The A's totaled five hits for the game but were greatly aided by seven Cardinal errors.

The Cardinals' record now stands at 4-7 for the season.

HCHS track holds post season program

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

Coaches Danny Simpson and Robert Walker hosted the post-season awards program for the Fillies and Thoroughbreds track teams Saturday.

The event was held at the Harrison County Extension Office and featured a lunch before the ceremony. Attendance was depleted some due to conflicting summer basketball, baseball and soccer events.

After lunch, Simpson began the program by thanking the track boosters especially Lesa Palmer, who heads up the group.

The booster club works the concession stand during the track meets and was the provider of the lunch on Saturday. Simpson also thanked his assistant coaches and the many volunteers that work the various positions required to host a track meet.

The freshman Fillies were the first group to be recognized.

Six freshmen were in attendance and Simpson went over each of their

Hanna Creech, was extolled as Simpson's right-hand helper.

Creech, who was injured, served as the stat girl among her duties with the team.

Other freshmen were Summer Franklin, Haley

Creech, Hanna Duncan, Heather Hamilton and Rachel Swinford.

The juniors and sophomores were the next group to be honored by Simpson.

Sara Iglesias, Mary Levi, Marie Bowen and Tarah Martin were all very valuable for the Fillies in the past year and will be counted on heavily by the coach next season.

Walker then introduced his freshmen, sophomores and juniors.

Tyler and Austin Jackson, Malcolm Walker, Scott Moore and Jesse Klapheke came forward to receive their T-shirts, letters and bars for the season along with some good natured kidding from Walker.

Malcolm Walker was mentioned as the fifth highest scorer for the Breds this year. Walker then brought up three of his six seniors on this year's team.

Austin Short, who was the third leading scorer on the Breds with 158 points, and Shane Palmer, who scored 60 points last season, were each complimented by Walker.

Walker next honored the leading score for the team, Derek Nunnelley.

Nunnelley, who signed a scholarship with Georgetown College Monday, finished fifth in the state meet in the 110M hurdles and ran a leg on the seventh-place 400M relay team.

He was joined on the relay by Malcolm Walker, Jovan Williams and Jordan Kenney at the state meet.

Nunnelley scored 243 points during this season and was presented with the Bobby Jenkins Award.

All of the seniors present were athletes who "would run whatever race and do what it took to win," according to Walker.

The last track athlete to be honored was senior Fillie Cassidy Cook.

Things I don't understand

I am constantly amazed by human behavior and how other people think and act on a daily basis as well as in sports.

This column will be dedicated to what I consider to be strange things in sports.

A couple of the strange items happened Sunday night before and during the Reds visit to the Cubs at Wrigley Field.

First, the pregame lasted about 45 minutes, almost all of which talked about the resurgent Cubs and their "stars," rookie Kris Bryant and first baseman Anthony Rizzo.

It was a love fest for the pregame people who are sure that Theo Epstein has transformed the Cubs into a contender.

Well, maybe the second-year general manager has made massive improvements, but as of Monday, the proof is not in the pudding.

If the season ended today, (Monday) the Cubs would be in a one-game playoff to see if they can compete in the real playoffs.

There is certainly no assurance that they will be there at the end. Maybe they are better, but a whole 45-minute pregame on them is a little much.

The second item was in last night's and nearly every night's Reds game.

Why doesn't Billy Hamilton

bunt?

His on-base percentage is below .250 or near that and he is so effective when he is on base.

An average bunt would get him on base three out of four times and once on base he is almost certainly going to reach second base.

At least the threat of a bunt would pull the infield in and allow a ground ball a better chance to become a hit.

If Bryan Price wants to remain as manager he might want to insist that he bunt some because that is a key to the Reds winning.

Right now the Reds are in fourth place, 13 games behind the Cardinals and that won't go over well in Cincinnati.

Price needs to do every thing he can do to win and having Hamilton bunt would help that cause.

I went to Derek Nunnelley's signing to run track for Georgetown College Monday afternoon and on the way home I was struck by a question. I saw Nick Slucher and Luke Garnett there during the photo session, both of whom attend or attended Georgetown and ran track.

Harrison County also may add another track athlete from the 2015 class to Georgetown's roster, but the details are still in the works.

Harrison County has Nick and the Carr twins, Haley and Grant, already running at Georgetown, so the track scholarships are flowing from Scott to Harrison County.

Kassidy Cook signed to run for Murray State so the Fillies and Thoroughbreds track program is sending people on to advance their educations with scholarship help.

My question: Why don't more of our athletes compete in track?

Sure the other sports have scholarship athletes such as Robbie Stroub in baseball, Trent Thompson in basketball and Jordan Kenney in football.

Still, track and field has also had quite a run of success with fewer of the athletes competing year in and year out.

I am sure that HCHS could compete for the region and even the state title if a bigger portion of our athletes would give track and field a chance.

It seems to me to be a real good idea based on scholarship success.

HCHS boys and girls golf tryouts this summer

Golf team tryouts for Harrison County High School will be held Thursday, July 16, for boys and Friday, July 17, for girls.

According to information from Coach Jason Crisp, the high interest in being on the teams has spurred the need for tryouts. The boys and girls teams will be limited to 10 players each.

The boys' July 16 tryouts will begin at 7:45 a.m. at the Cynthiana Country Club. The girls will be the following day at 7:45 a.m.

Crisp asked that all golfers be at the course no later than 7:30 a.m. on their respective try-out date.

In order to try out for the team, each potential golfer must have an up-to-date physical. Crisp said documentation is a must for trying out for the teams.

For more information, contact Crisp at 859-351-4251 or jason.crisp@harrison.kyschools.us.

Clinard told police she suspected Timothy Holloway, who Clinard was waiting for an EPO to be served. It was alleged that Holloway and Shana Hoff removed the items from the home. Hoff allegedly took the items to JJs Trading Post. An antique oak china hutch, valued at $1,500 was sold for $50 to an individual. The case remains open.

June 2 -- At 5:40 p.m., Seth Smith of Walmart loss prevention, reported that Angel R. Richardson came into the store and removed a Rug Doctor vacuum cleaner. June 2 -- At 6:10 p.m., police were called to Flat Run Veterans' Park where a mini bike had reported been taken from the back of a truck. Chief William Denton reported that he had previously witnessed subjects walking away from the park pushing a mini bike. ## Faith in Jesus, not perfection, leads to God

The word translated “gospel” in our English Bibles is simply the Greek word for “good news.”

Martin Luther, the great protestant reformer, struggled for a long time to see it as “good news.” When he was a young man near the age of 21, he was caught in a thunderstorm in which a bolt of lightning hit the ground near him.

Fearing for his life, he cried out to a saint and vowed to become a monk and follow the Lord if his life was spared.

He was spared and true to his word, he became a monk. He became the best monk around. He gave himself over to prayers, fasting, denying himself, service.

He was so good, many of his peers thought he was destined for sainthood. He was striving so that God would accept him. However, Luther struggled greatly. He knew and understood from reading the Bible that God was holy and righteous and perfect and demanded the same from those who would follow Him.

Yet, he knew his own heart and the reality was that as good as he was and as hard as he tried, he could never be as good or do enough to merit God’s favor and acceptance.

He wore out the priest who served his monastery with his constant confession and acts of penance, but nothing could rid him of his guilt.

He grew to despise the phrase “the righteousness of God”. Martin began to doubt God’s goodness, suspecting that God was requiring more than he was able to do and be. For him, there was no “good” in the gospel.

That is until he began to study the book of Romans and he started to understand something he had not realized. He was captured by Romans 1:16-17 where Paul states that in the gospel, God reveals His righteousness to those who live by faith. As he read Romans he began to realize what this meant. The gospel didn’t require his righteousness but it required his faith and as he studied the rest of Paul’s letter to the Romans, he discovered that it was faith in the righteous life and substituting death of Christ, and the fact that God applied both those things to those who come to Him by faith in His Son.

Imagine Martin’s relief after years of the agonizing realization that he was not and could never be good enough to be accepted by God.

Oh, but when he realized that God accepted him because the righteousness of Christ was credited to him through his faith in Jesus, then he realized that gospel is indeed “Good News!” Is the gospel “good news” to you?

Following every rule is just about impossible, but that’s OK

My friend Mike loves kitschy stuff and he loves God. So, anything that combines kitsch and God is a slice of heaven to him.

Recently, someone gave him a Moses and the Ten Commandments clock. Moses, holding a stone tablet in each arm, is looking off into the distance, all holy-like, and there’s lightning behind him.

Every hour, but not quite on the hour, the clock will play some light piano music and a voice — could be God, could be Moses — announces a commandment. “Thou shalt not kill” or “Honor your father and mother.”

Mike thinks the clock has a light sensor because Moses (or God) only calls out commandments in the daytime. He also said the clock takes three batteries, but he only had two, so the voice is a bit off. He wonders if he can program additional commandments into it for his daughter, like “Thou shalt make thy bed.”

Every morning when Mike comes in to work, he tells me about that day’s 8 a.m. commandment. “Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor” seems to come up a lot, which prompted a discussion among several of us one day.

Mike said he wondered why God included that in his Top 10. Next to murder and stealing and adultery, it seems benign. Besides, what does it even mean, “bear false witness?”

We decided it means gossip and slander and lying, which, if you think about it, is akin to murdering someone’s character. The New Testament writer James said the power of life and death is in the tongue. So, it appears not bearing false witness is a biggie after all.

But before I go off on a watch-your-words tangent, what I really want to discuss is the whole body of commandments. All 10 on the stone tablets Moses has under his arms.

For starters, it doesn’t make sense (in my opinion) for God to have given us rules that are humanly impossible to follow. For example, take just the first one. “Love God first, best, most, highest, only, in everything I do, think and say” (my paraphrase).

Not even on my best day can I do that. Not only that, the Bible says if I stumble at just one point of the law I’m guilty of breaking it all (James 2:10). Therefore, I’m defeated before I even try to move on to No. 2.

My pastor tells a story about a man who came to see him one day, ticked off about the whole concept of becoming a Christian by grace and faith and trust alone. The man said, “Why can’t we go to heaven the old-fashion way — by earning it?”

GRACE NOTES

My pastor told him, “You’re right. I hate it when they change the rules. How about this: If you can say you’ve kept all 10 commandments, I’ll talk to God and try to get you in.”

Then he asked the man how many commandments he’s kept. The man paused and counted.

“Seven,” he answered.

If this were a game show, the buzzer would sound and the game show host would be saying, “Oooh, wrong answer. Johnny, what do we have as a consolation prize?”

If you blow one, you’ve blown them all.

However, that’s good news — great news. Because God knew I could never keep the commandments, Jesus kept them for me, and because I trust him, that means I’m “in.”

As for the law, that’s in the Bible as a model, a standard and a guide for my life. At the same time, because I can’t keep the law perfectly, it’s there to show me how badly I need Jesus to do for me what I can’t do for myself. (I didn’t make this up. See Romans 3 and 7 for yourself.)

The amazing thing is, once I admit that I can’t obey the law, once I begin to rest in what Jesus has done and believe and trust that even on my worst day I’m still his, then I find the law — the Ten Commandments and beyond — to be a delight. I truly want to obey it.

Sometimes I’m actually able to — and sometimes I’m not. When I do, it brings great happiness.

When I don’t? It brings even greater grace.

People & Partners, Celebrating Extension event is July 2

By GARY CARTER, COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
FOR AGRICULTURE

Over the last several years we have held an Extension Leadership Event in March. Our county planning group decided to change the date. So, the date for the ELE event entitled People & Partners, Celebrating Extension will be held on Thursday, July 2 at the Big Barn at the Harrison County Fairgrounds.

At this event, you will receive a great meal and a short program. The program will include our guest speaker, Warren Beeler, from the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, and award some of our outstanding leaders.

As you might have noticed, this is approaching our 4th of July celebration. In other words, we will be celebrating just a couple days early. Plans have been made to offer some activities for the youth so make sure to bring the entire family. You will also see the improvements that have been made at the fairgrounds this year for the upcoming fair.

We ask that you call and let us know if you plan to attend. This should be a lot of fun for the whole family. Call the Extension Office at 859-234-5510 by June 29 if you plan to attend.

USDA opens enrollment period for ARC and PLC programs

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Secretary Tom Vilsack announces that eligible producers may now formally enroll in the Agriculture Risk Coverage (ARC) and Price Loss Coverage (PLC) programs for 2014 and 2015. The enrollment period begins June 17, 2015, and will end Sept. 30, 2015.

"The extensive outreach campaign conducted by USDA since the 2014 Farm Bill was enacted, along with extending deadlines, is central to achieving an expected high level of participation," said Vilsack. "We worked with universities to simplify these complex programs by providing online tools so producers could explore how program election options would affect their operation in different market conditions."

The Farm Service Agency also sent more than five million educational notices to producers nationwide and participated in over 4,880 educational events with more than 447,000 attendees. I am proud of the many committed USDA employees who worked hard over the last several months to provide producers support to help them make these important decisions."

The new programs, established by the 2014 Farm Bill, trigger financial protections for agricultural producers when market forces cause substantial drops in crop prices or revenues. More than 1.76 million farmers have elected ARC or PLC. Previously, 1.7 million producers had enrolled to receive direct payments (the program replaced with ARC and PLC by the 2014 Farm Bill). This means more farms have elected ARC or PLC than previously enrolled under previously administered programs.

For data about other crops and state-by-state program election results go to www.fsa.usda.gov/arc-plc.

Covered commodities under ARC and PLC include barley, canola, large and small chickpeas, corn, crambe, flaxseed, grain sorghum, lentils, mustard seed, oats, peanuts, dry peas, rapeseed, long grain rice, medium grain rice (which includes short grain and sweet rice), safflower seed, sesame, soybeans, sunflower seed and wheat. Upland cotton is no longer a covered commodity.

For more information, visit www.usda.gov/farmbill.

SEARCH AND RESCUE. The Harrison County Search and Rescue team was invited to Owsley County to help in the search for a man who went missing on June 11. The Harrison County seven man team helped in the search effort on June 14 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. under very rough terrain with warnings of bears and poisonous snakes. The team located several clues but as of presstime the man is still missing. Harrison County has been invited back on June 20 to help in the search but is not sure at this time if the team will be able to attend, according to Re'Jeana Craft, Harrison County Search and Rescue Chief. Pictured with Craft is Kris Caswell, Harrison County Search and Rescue Captain.
